

Here at Project Uplift mentors teach and educate mentees with life skills, job skills, and caring for our community by helping others. Being a mentee means to learn from our mentors and to reflect what they have taught to us to our peers, family members, and community. Our mentors shape us with their knowledge, wisdom, and experiences so that we can pass this onto generations to come. In a sense we the mentees learn to better our lives and help others as well. The greatest hope our mentors have for us is that we make something of ourselves. The second is that we, the mentees, become mentors ourselves when the time comes.
